Product Overview

Afinity's ReserveMail solution provides fully automated failover for your mail system. If your mail system is down, or even your entire network, you simply logon to the ReserveMail offsite failover and begin working. Any new mail messages will appear as they arrive and you can respond just as if you were on your own system.

Only new messages appear in the ReserveMail system so you don't have to wait for your entire mail system to repopulate, or try to determine what is new and what is old. When your system comes back online ReserveMail automatically updates your inbox and you can easily continue to work as if you were never down.

Afinity ReserveMail requires the Defender Anti-Spam solution from Postini. When your mail server goes offline for any reason, The ReserveMail system kicks in automatically and begins capturing incoming messages in a convenient and secure offsite location. Your users simply login using their email address and a unique password to access the spooled messages.

Once the email system has been restored to full operation, ReserveMail automatically populates your user's inbox with the spooled messages.

It's simple, fully automated and provides just what you need at a cost you can afford.

Afinity delivers complete IT solutions to small and medium size businesses. We provide industry leading hardware, software and security solutions. Our unique strategy gives SMB access to Fortune 500 quality IT services that are normally out of reach.
